

As a telephone customer in Indiana, I request that the FCC not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Privacy Law protections. Before the law, we would receive unsolicited telephome calls nostly during our dinnertime, but sometimes also late at night and on weekends. Some automatic calling systems appear to even block your ability to hang up on the call and then make a call of your own. It is rude, it is an invasion of my privacy, and interrupts my choice of whom i want to talk to in my own home.

Just as communities can have laws preventing door-to-door solicitation, states and communities deserve the same prrotection from unwanted telephone solicitations.

Thank you for your consideration of my request.
